Object To Arms Use In Politics

Byrnes Voices it As to Military Equipment Under Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes said today that the United States objects to the use of lend-lease arms for political purposes as they have been employed by British and Dutch forces in the Far East.

All that has been done about the objection, Byrnes told a news conference, is to ask the British and Dutch to remove the United States emblem from the military equipment they are using against Nationalists in Indo-China and in Java.

The policy of objection applies everywhere, Byrnes added, asserting that if it has not been invoked it should be in South America or any other section of the world.

No Protests by South America

He told inquirers that the United States had not received any protests from Venezuela or other South American countries, however, some lend-lease arms were used by Venezuelan revolutionaries last week to put over what top officials here consider a liberal change in the government.

In Indo-China and the Dutch Indies, lend-lease materials have been used by troops of the colonial powers to attempt to restore order. The United States last week announced a policy of non-intervention in those situations but at the same time offered to try to patch up the difficulties if requested to do so and sharply reminded the powers concerned that they should prepare their peoples for self-government.

Loot is Small In Many Thefts

Thieves are working Central Missouri again, but up to the present their "haul" has been small. Over Monday night and Tuesday morning nine robberies were reported in Johnson county, while today the thieves made their strike at Sedalia. Two local business houses were entered sometime early this morning, the loss however, not being great.

The Howard Roberts grocery, 212 West Main street, was entered and some cigarettes and chicken feed stolen. A check is being made to determine if any other merchandise is missing.

Entrance was gained by smashing a plate glass window in the front of the store. This robbery was discovered by Officer John Blackstone, making his rounds shortly after 5 o'clock this morning.

The Adams Implement Co., 401 West Main street, was entered by thieves who broke a glass window on the east side of the building. The office was ransacked and two cash registers rifled. It was reported the thieves had taken approximately $15.

In Warrensburg a garage and several filling stations were entered by thieves who gained entrances to the place in a similar manner and three places at Knob Noster were entered in a like manner Monday night or early Tuesday.

State Trooper Pete Stohr is conducting an investigation of the robberies in Johnson county and he reported less than $30 obtained by the thieves at all nine places.

Roger Young Resigns As USO Director

Roger Young, who for the past six and one-half months has been director of the local USO has resigned and will leave Thursday night for Hines, Ill., where he has accepted a position with the Veterans' Administration. He will work out of the Hines hospital.

"Who Done It?"

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 24—(AP)—A precinct police sergeant called tonight for one of his patrolmen to confess and endure embarrassment for the honor of the force.

A fire alarm sent firemen next door rushing to their hose and ladder truck. Motors roared and the big doors swung open—but in the middle of the driveway was a parked car.

Police hurriedly pushed it aside, one reached for his ticket book—and then discovered it was a patrol car.

Returns on the Chest Drive Encourage

Returns from the War Chest Drive are coming in good and it is hoped that the goal of $28,000 will be reached by the end of the week. All Sedalians are asked to cooperate by giving as large a contribution as they can to bring the drive to successful close as soon as possible.

An additional $111.49 has been turned in by the public schools bringing the total amount from the schools to $908.00.

Returns from out in the county have not come in yet but workers are soliciting everyone and it is expected that a good showing will be made from the rural districts and various towns in the county.

Justices Are On Way Out

Provision for Magistrates in Larger Counties

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24—(AP)—Justices of the peace, relics of a time when it was an all-day journey to the county seat, are on their way out in Missouri.

The senate judiciary committee pushed them a little further into the past last night by approving a bulky bill to establish the main outlines of a system of magistrate courts in place of the old "J. P. courts."

Several companion bills arising from the same directive of the 1945 constitution already have been passed by the senate, guided by committee chairman Jasper Smith (R) of Springfield. But the bill reported out today has caused the most controversy thus far. Lengthy committee debate indicated it might cause more dispute when it comes up on the floor.

The new system calls for the probate judge to be judge of the magistrate court in counties under 30,000 population. Some of the borderline counties just under the population limit complained this would overload their probate judge but the committee found no way to meet that problem.

Provide for Magistrate

Counties between 30,000 and 70,000 would have one magistrate in addition to their probate judge; between 70,000 and 100,000, two magistrates; over 100,000 two magistrates plus an extra one for each major fraction of 100,000 population. The number in counties over 30,000 could be increased by the circuit court if necessary were shown.

Salaries would run from $2,400 for the smallest counties to $5,000 for the largest. Amounts allowed for clerk hire would range from $600 to $3,000 per year for each magistrate.

Approved by the senate's committee on military affairs was a bill offered by Chairman H. B. Hart (R) of Versailles to expand the duties and staff of the present state veterans' service office to permit it to prosecute veterans' benefit claims and instruct them in their rights.

Memorial Chapel Is Planned At Wentworth

The structure, to be known as the Wentworth Military Academy Memorial chapel, will be constructed under the sponsorship of academy alumni and fathers of cadets.

Ashes of Prisoners of War Are Being Brought Back by Plane

By Vern Haugland

ENROUTE FROM TOKYO TO MANILA, Oct. 24—(AP)—The 14 wooden boxes were stacked neatly in the center aisle of the plane. They were lashed down firmly against the bumpy weather. Some were the size of orange crates. Others were larger, or smaller.

We 30 passengers, mostly headed homeward, were aligned along the walls in bucket seats of the big, four-motored C-54 transport. We could see the black stenciling on the side of each box. Each bore a quartermaster address and a notice "Air Shipment Required—Official Courier."

"Do you know those boxes have a No. 2 priority out of Tokyo,

Possibly Bide Time to Act on Training Plan

Public Reaction Likely be Sounded Before Taken up

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—An uncertain congress held up a moistened finger for the winds of public reaction today before tackling President Truman's universal military training program.

Brought up short against a problem many aren't ready to meet, legislators appeared to be separating into these three groups: 1. Those willing to approve lock, stock and barrel Mr. Truman's proposal that a year's training be given all physically able young men while they are between the ages of 17 and 20. This appeared to be a minority group.

2. Those who want a modified training program which won't interrupt young America's education. This seemed to take in the great body of middle-roads.

3. Those who oppose any form of compulsion, think volunteer military training will meet the nation's needs. They form another minority group.

Leaders palpably wished President Truman hadn't brought up the matter at this time. There was no measure on hand designated as an administration bill to carry out his plan.

No Move Made

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) said he didn't know when any action might be taken. Neither house nor senate military committees made any move.

White House advisers were quoted at second hand as having said Mr. Truman had decided to take his stand and let the political chips fall where they may. These advisers reportedly think universal training may be the chief issue in the 1946 congressional campaign if the legislators don't act.

The president was represented as wanting no compromise of his

Japanese Will Plead for Food

TOKYO, Oct. 24—(AP)—Editors of Japan's largest multi-million dollar family monopoly, provided the stigma of being linked with the war effort, wrestled today with reorganization—while the harassed government prepared to beg for outside aid to meet a food crisis.

The problem before the directors of Mitsui, a company dating back to 1873, was what to do with holdings which are frowned on under the present setup by General MacArthur.

The problem before Welfare Minister Hitoshi Ashida was how to feed the people through the months of November and December until transportation deficiencies are overcome to permit adequate distribution of the currently harvested rice crop. Ashida said his government plans to negotiate with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

While the Nipponese grappled with these paradoxical issues of rags and riches, American occupation interest was focused on the visit of a war department official from Washington. Little was being said about the conferences of John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war, although these already have included a meeting with MacArthur.

On the House

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 24—(AP)—Tenants in a house owned by County Auditor Lorene Burks wondered why the bricklayer was building a new chimney on the place.

So they asked her about it. That, said she, "is a new one on me"—and on the house, too. Checking up they learned that the bricklayers confused the address and erected a chimney on the wrong house.

Kills Deer Found Hanging on Fence

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24—(AP)—Police Sergeant Nicholas Kindl got his limit, a five-point buck, today a week before the state's deer season opens.

Kindl and another scout car officer first flushed the deer from a vacant lot on the edge of the city and a few hours later saw it hanging from a six-foot cemetery fence, one foreleg impaled on a fence spike. Kindl shot the 250-pound animal with his revolver after efforts to release it failed.

Officers said the meat would be given to a charitable institution.

USS Missouri Steals Show In Pre-Navy Day Inspection

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—"Big Mo" stole the show today in the pre-Navy Day inspection of the navy units gathered in New York harbor.

Her teakwood deck, scene of the Japanese surrender, was crowded with visitors, at the rate of 10,000 an hour. They seemed drawn to a spot where a bronze plaque read: "U. S. S. Missouri. Over this spot on 2 September 1945, the instrument of the formal surrender of Japan to the Allied powers was signed, thus bringing to a close the Second World War. The ship at that time was at anchor in Tokyo bay." It also gives the Missouri's exact position at the time of the surrender.

Shoe Rationing Nearing End

Points on Butter Are to be Reduced From 12 to Eight

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Tentative plans call for an end of shoe rationing either Oct. 28 or Nov. 1, it was learned today.

Government officials also have considered the possibility of terminating the program earlier if these plans became generally known.

There are other developments and prospects on the rationing front:

1. OPA has decided to cut butter ration values from 12 points a pound to eight. It will announce this tomorrow.

2. Passenger tire rationing may be ended late in December.

3. Truck tires are slated to come off the list by late November.

Choice of date for ending shoe rationing is expected to be made today or tomorrow by OPA and war production board officials.

"At this time," said one official who asked anonymity, "discussions definitely have boiled down to picking one of two dates. This could change, but it doesn't seem likely."

Advocate Next Sunday

October 28—next Sunday—is advocated by those who feel that termination of the program over the weekend would give the dealers a chance to get ready.

West coast arrivals are due at San Francisco, Seattle and San Diego.

Vandegrift Lauds Two Unit System

Points to the Heroic Record of The U. S. Marines

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Pointing to the heroic record of marine units in the recent war, General A. A. Vandegrift said today the spirit they displayed would be lost under proposed merger of the armed forces.

The four-star general who commands the Leathernecks, joined the secretary of the navy and Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King in opposing unification of land, sea and air forces into one large department.

"I ask the proponents of this measure to remember that fifty dollars a month was not the consideration that led men to die in storming Iwo Jima, to crash in flames over Tokyo, or to lie forever in some nameless sea," General Vandegrift told the senate military affairs committee.

The general lauded the present two-department army and navy system. He said continuation of the wartime joint chiefs of staff and other coordinating agencies would accomplish all that merger proponents could claim for their legislative plans.

After recounting the numerous amphibious landings made by the marines with their special equipment, General Vandegrift said healthy competition among the armed services was necessary.

"The logical, the inevitable result of unification is to paint out these brilliant and distinctive colorings with a heavy drab coat of anonymous bureaucratic gray," he said, adding a belief that a lumping of all armed forces into a single agency would set up an undemocratic military hierarchy which soon would destroy close congressional controls.

Report is Promised

President Truman has promised to give senators a secret report by four admirals and generals on whether to merge the armed services, it was disclosed today.

"He assure me that we would get it just as soon as they can prepare copies," Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), acting chairman of the senate military committee, told a reporter.

"I told the president that we were anxious to see it and he said it would be in such shape that it could be released to newspapermen," Johnson added.

The committee called Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, marine commander, as a witness in today's continuation of hearings on the merger proposal.

The secret study, made under auspices of the joint chiefs of staff in 1944, is reported to favor the service consolidation, 3 to 1.

The four who made the study are Admiral J. O. Richardson, Rear Admiral M. F. Schoepel, Lt. Gen. Harold George, and Maj. Gen. W. F. Tompkins. Senators have been told that the minority dissent on merger was by Admiral Richardson.

Named to Head Social Security

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24—(AP)—Major Proctor N. Carter, who was discharged from the army last week, was appointed State Social Security Administrator today by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

Carter, 38, of Columbia, Mo., is a Democrat. He succeeds Parke M. Banta, a Republican, whose term expired October 8.

Carter has been assistant administrator since June, 1937. He took a leave of absence in September, 1943, to enter the American military government branch of the army and served 21 months overseas in England, Africa, France, Germany and Austria. From the invasion of southern France until August 30 he was a staff officer with headquarters of the Seventh Army, where he won a bronze star for meritorious service.

Carter started to work for the social security program as a county relief worker in 1933 and worked up to be assistant to the state administrator in the old Missouri Relief Commission. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri and the son of Mrs. E. M. Carter, of Columbia. His father was secretary of the Missouri State Teachers Association for 25 years before his death in 1937. Carter is married and the father of two sons, 13 and 9.

Began Career In 1916; New R. R. Equipment Ordered

Donald V. Fraser, St. Louis, who has been with the railroad for 29 years, was elected president and director of the Missouri, Kansas, Texas railroad company at a meeting of the board of directors of the company held in New York Tuesday.

Raymond J. Morfa, chairman of the board, who was elected to that position on September 25 announced the election of Mr. Fraser to fill the vacancy of the president that has existed since the death of Matthew S. Sloan last June.

Hunter L. Gary resigned from the board of the company at Tuesday's meeting which vacancy was filled by the election of Fraser.

The principal passenger car shops for the Katy are located in Sedalia on ground that extended from Grand avenue to Beacon avenue, between Twentieth street and the main M-K-T line. The shops superintendent, J. H. Brunkhorst, was in St. Louis last week to discuss specification details on new streamline passenger equipment.

Between 60 and 65 cars are repaired and rebuilt annually at the local shops, where approximately 200 employees are employed currently, Brunkhorst said. The present shops were built in 1898. The original Sedalia M-K-T shops were located east of the railroad tracks between Fifth street and Broadway.

Traitor Quisling Executed

Arch Plotter of Norway Faces Firing Squad Before Dawn

By Ned Nordness

OSLO, Oct. 24—(AP)—Vidkun Quisling, Norway's arch traitor, was executed by a firing squad before dawn today, paying the final price for dealing with an enemy his king and countrymen defied throughout the bitter years of the war.

The greatest secrecy surrounded the execution, a foreign affairs office spokesman said.

Quisling was awakened in his cell at about 2 a. m. (7 p. m., Tuesday, CST) and rushed quickly before the firing squad of ten Norwegian military police. The only witnesses were an unidentified member of the state prosecution, a clergyman and the officer who gave the order to fire.

Firing Squad of Youths

The youths who formed the firing squad had been forced to flee the country during Quisling's puppet regime. Members of the squad had been alerted for the past week for their task.

Quisling stumbled to his death through a murky, drizzling rain in the dismal execution square of the ancient Akershus fortress. To the very end he maintained that he was a patriot.

The government had not planned to announce the execution for three or four days to avoid publicity and public curiosity. However, one Oslo morning paper learned of Quisling's death in time to catch its last edition with a brief sentence that he was executed. The story brought forth a ministry of justice communique some seven hours later.

The body presumably will be turned over to relatives for burial in Quisling's native province of Telemark. A foreign affairs spokesman intimated that his brain would be removed for study.

Anneaus Schjoedt, state prosecutor who presented the case against the pallid former puppet dictator, and Henrik Bergh, Quisling's defense lawyer, said they had not been notified in advance that Quisling was to be executed today.

The Norwegian embassy in London announced that Quisling was shot at 2:40 a. m. and quoted a statement by the royal Norwegian ministry of justice:

"The sentence of death passed on Vidkun Quisling on the 13th of October by the supreme court in Oslo was carried out by shooting at 2:40 a. m., Norwegian time. "The supreme court did not recommend a reprieve. Neither could the state prosecutor.

Sent King Letter

"Quisling sent the king a letter in which he pointed out he was innocent, but added he did not ask for a reprieve.

"Mrs. Quisling, however, requested a reprieve on behalf of her husband. In a cabinet meeting yesterday, the king rejected Mrs. Quisling's petition for mercy and decided the sentence would be carried out.

"Quisling's relatives were notified of the execution at 9 a. m. this morning."

In the slightly more than five years he ruled Norway as Adolf Hitler's puppet, the name of Vidkun Abraham Lauritz Quisling became a synonym for traitor.

He was virtually unknown outside his own country before he emerged in April, 1940, as a collaborator with the German invaders of his homeland. Behind him was a record of political failure and discontent with his profession, the army. Even after the Nazis lifted him to power he could rally no confidence among his people.

Rule by Force of Arms

Strikes and sabotage marked his early rule, and his regime survived only by Nazi force of arms.

With his party's collapse Quisling dropped into political oblivion, not to reappear until Norway was under the German boot. Theoretically he became second to the German civil governor in internal administration of the country, although a host of Nazi civil officials and the Gestapo stood between him and actual power.

In October, 1942, the exiled Norwegian government in London sentenced him to death for his puppet role, but his doom actually was sealed with the collapse last spring of his one support—German military might.

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—The fact that things are going better in Japan since Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson cracked down on General MacArthur is obvious to the naked eye. MacArthur has taken the revolutionary step of instituting woman's suffrage, has helped put an old friend of the United States—Baron Shidehara—in as premier, and has taken important steps toward the demobilization of Japan.

Some of the steps behind this, however, are not so apparent. They go back to the encouraging start Jimmy Byrnes has made in reorganizing his state department. While Byrnes has had hard luck with the Russians, he has made unadvertised but important progress in other things.

One of these is his clean-up of the state department's far eastern division. The old appeasers—Eugene Dooman and Joseph Ballantine, both born in the Far East—are out. They had put faith in the Japanese aristocracy—big business clique.

Replacing them is John Carter Vincent and some hard working younger men who long warned Cordell Hull against appeasement. Vincent, incidentally, was passed over twice for promotion by the old appeasers under Hull.

Vincent has sent some tough young Far Eastern experts to work with General MacArthur. Simultaneously, assistant secretary of war McCloy has taken a special trip to the Far East to make sure that state department—MacArthur cooperation is working smoothly.

Tokyo Chaff

Two days before MacArthur came out for woman's suffrage, he had a significant Japanese caller—Yuriko Chujo, leading advocate of woman's suffrage. Daughter of a liberal Jap engineer, she is also one of Japan's leading novelists. . . . Though things are going better in Tokyo, Prince Konoye is the worst man

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Don't Let It Be "Home, Strange Home"

"Notice there was a meetin' in Charleston lately to discuss the problem of takin' care of the boys who'll be comin' back from overseas," said Sam Abernethy. "And it's one of our real problems. We think it'll be 'Home, sweet home' to these boys. But after what they've seen and been through, it may well turn out to be 'Home, strange home,' instead."

Sam's right. Properly adjusting millions of returned servicemen will tax our country's leaders. From where I sit, it's not just a job for Congress. It's for all of us. From their letters, the boys

SUCCESS AND TRAGEDY
XV

THE Colon season opened with a really fantastic bill—far more important and costly than the previous year. The Argentines had made so much money on the World War, they did not care what anything cost them.

I had one success after another from the very first night and was treading on air. All the teamwork I had done the previous year at the Colon and during a short engagement with Nemanoff at the Empire was a perfect base for us to work on. He was just a little taller than I, and though not handsome, made a magnificent appearance on the stage. He was powerfully built and as fair as I was dark—always an interesting contrast for dancers. I was also having a personal success, with all the admirers I could possibly want and a lot I did not want. When I looked in retrospect at the last six months of my life, I could not believe that I had ever been so weak and stupid as to have got myself involved in a marital tangle.

Because I could find no hotel both good and inexpensive, I found a tiny house on a quiet street close to a shady park where I could have all the animals I wanted without interference and a large studio where I could install a piano and practice. Number 1420 Juncal was the address of this house which was very lucky for me and became quite famous in Buenos Aires.

I did not dare to write mother that I was actually living all alone in my own house and did not think it was diplomatic to tell father either, but of course I wrote the entire story about Leslie to him. He replied saying that the subject of my marriage was very possible to rewrite the Jap constitution.

Related to the emperor, he believes in protecting the aristocracy. Never in the past did he buck the military, though frequently pretending to. . . Several years ago, this writer interviewed Premier Shidehara in Tokyo. He was then foreign minister in the Kato cabinet and definitely favored friendly cooperation with both the USA and China. However, he got his big boost in life through marrying a daughter of the Mitsubishi, a big business family which has played hand-in-glove with the militarists. . . . One Jap leader MacArthur might look over is Baron Minove, a former member of the house of peers who was forced to give up his seat because he argued that the emperor was the servant of the state, not its boss. . . . Minove's son, a professor who spent 18 months in jail for opposing war with the U. S., is also worth looking over. Kanju Kato, the

BOWEL CLEANING POWER OF ERB-HELP MEDICINE

One man recently took ERB-HELP three days and said afterward that he never would have believed his body contained so much filthy substance. He says his stomach, intestines, bowels and whole system were so thoroughly cleansed that his constant headaches came to an end, several pimply skin eruptions on his face dried up overnight, and even the rheumatic pains in his knee disappeared. At present he is an altogether different man, feeling fine in every way.

painful and that he would prefer not to hear or write any more about it.

LIFE was very pleasant in Buenos Aires that year—I don't remember a dull moment. I was making a saving money. My only extravagance was the parties I gave in Juncal for my fellow dancers. I got on well with all of them and we had some riotous times on beer and sandwiches, generally after the show—for we were all too serious to think of letting any amusements interfere with our work.

Many of the girls in the ballet had got themselves tangled up in sentimental complications, but I always steered clear of anything of the sort. Although I never used my husband's name except for business purposes or told anyone except my best friends about my marriage, I felt I owed him at least enough respect to keep myself to myself and concentrate on the work I had left him for.

I gained more confidence in myself as the season went on and began to think seriously about trying out an idea I had for a ballet. I made a plan of it and showed it to a good friend of mine, Auguste Muraire, a composer and concert violinist of outstanding merit. He had come to the Colon, first as first violinist with the Saint-Saens and then with the Pavlova company. He liked my idea so much that, after studying it, he said he would write the music and we would produce it together if it was successful. We worked on the ballet "Harlequin Noir" in my studio, and I designed the decor and costumes and planned out the choreography with Nemanoff.

THE season of the Colon was to finish in Buenos Aires with

Army Politics

One point apparently not grasped by the generals who sit in the rarefied atmosphere of the Pentagon building is that if they want to get red-blooded American youngsters to remain in the army, army favoritism has got to go.

Judging by the thousands of letters received by this columnist, most enlisted men and young officers are burning up over brass hat discrimination. (This is actually true of the navy.) They can put up with a certain amount of injustice in wartime—though it doesn't make them particularly happy. But when they see the sons of Senator O'Daniel of Texas getting breaks they don't get, or the son of Senator Wheeler of Montana released from the navy on a hardship case, or football and baseball players discharged on low points, it literally burns them up.

This week the generals are considering another step which won't help them win support for the 4,000,000-man army General Marshall wants. They are considering the discharge or transfer of Robert Stripling, four times deferred former counsel of the Dies committee, just as his military police unit is about to leave for Tokyo.

Stripling has been in Washington for several days lobbying for this transfer. Though a lot of men have trouble getting furloughs, he managed to get away from his base at San Antonio, Va., draft board deferred him as an "essential worker." Finally the draft board refused further delays and he was slated to report December 1, last year. But at the last minute, General Hershey himself, went over the local draft board's head and gave him until January 4.

Then on January 4, Congressman May of Kentucky intervened and got him off until January 20, at which time Stripling finally entered the army. By that time the old Dies committee had ceased to exist. So Congressman Rankin introduced a resolution to pay Stripling a salary from January 3 to January 20. Under the law the Dies committee being nonexistent, he couldn't otherwise have been paid.

Stripling has now been in the army exactly nine months. But, with two-year veterans still in uniform, he wants to get back to Washington. And it's congressional friends say the deal is all arranged.

Truman Humor

President Harry Truman was in his best form at the "Reserve Officers' dinner in honor of General George Marshall. The president spoke very humbly and simply, without notes or manuscript. It was straight from the heart. To the star-studded audience of famous generals, Truman said:

"General Marshall is my idea of a leader, and I consider myself something of a judge on that."

Then he went on to reveal that he has studied in his spare time the lives and strategy of such great generals as Hannibal, Genghis Khan and Napoleon.

Truman also revealed that early in the war he had gone to General Marshall and offered his services, but—according to the president—"General Marshall wisely turned me down." That drew some "farewell" popular functions, and rumors had been flying about ever since Rio that, in spite of the colossal success, everything was not well and that Bonetti had been losing money. It seemed incredible, for the Colon had been packed for every show. Bonetti undoubtedly had a terrific salary sheet to cover, and I suppose the general intake was not up to his expectations. We continued working unusually late in the season, giving command performances for the Presidents of Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bonetti were worried about something, I could tell, and I felt terribly sorry for them—they were such a grand couple. Some of the big stars who had earned thousands of dollars sulked and muttered in corners about the Bonettis' being broke.

The climax came when the season in Buenos Aires was nearly over. I was up in the wardrobe room with Madame Bonetti one afternoon, checking ballet costumes that were to be sent back to Italy, when her son came running upstairs looking for her. After talking to him she turned white and asked me to accompany her. We hurried down to Mr. Bonetti's office. Stagehands and the office personnel were standing about looking scared. I felt a chill creep over me when Madame Bonetti tried to open the office door and found it locked. She could get no answer from within, so young Bonetti, nearly beside himself, broke down the door. Mr. Bonetti was unconscious in his chair, with a loaded revolver clenched in his hand. He had suffered a stroke at the precise moment he was about to pull the trigger.

The Bonettis were ruined, and there was nothing for poor Madame to do but take her sick husband and, together with her son, return to Italy. Mario Carelli remained to close the Colon. I never heard what happened to the Bonettis except that they sold their home to pay up everything they owed, and that Mr. Bonetti was an invalid.

a lot of laughs and Truman smiled back happily.

But the president hit the jackpot with the army officers when he said, "and General Marshall even succeeded in getting the navy to cooperate with the army." "Wahoo!" shouted the assembled army officers in one voice.

Truman's Division Battled in Bulge

By NEA Service

In world War I, the 35th Infantry Division had an inconspicuous captain of artillery named Harry S. Truman.

Twenty-seven years later this same artillery captain, now President of the United States, stepped ashore at Antwerp and inspected a guard of honor from his World War I outfit, the 137th Regiment of the fighting 35th.

From the time the 35th doughs hit Omaha beach in France in July, 1944, until the Germans surrendered, they served with the American First, Third, Seventh, Ninth and Fifteenth Armies, and fought the Wehrmacht from St. Lo to the Elbe River.

In the line two days after hitting the Omaha beach, the men who wear the Santa Fe cross on their shoulders fought their way across the Cherbourg peninsula, and in one of the most vicious battles in France, repulsed a counterattack that threatened to overrun Avranches. The 35th continued to drive straight across France, spanning the Loire, Seine, Loire, Marne, and Meuse Rivers. It liberated Nancy, and on December 5, fired its first round into Germany, and then crossed the Saar.

During the Battle of the Bulge, the 35th made three great jumps. It was shifted to the First Army.

During the Christmas holidays it plunged into battle. It repulsed four crack German divisions on the right flank of the Bastogne highway. This threat ended, the men of the Santa Fe made a dramatic leap to the Seventh Army in the South, where a breakthrough was threatened. Again the 35th held, and in bitter weather was rushed 292 miles north to join the Ninth Army. Worn from constant battle, the 35th doughs banged away at the Germans trapped in the Wessel pocket, and drove into the Ruhr. Later, the 35th joined the Fifteenth Army.

Air Service Command operated longest regularly scheduled air freight line in the world during World War II—15,000 miles from Patterson Field, Ohio, to India.

Would Regulate 'Set Up' Spots

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24—(AP)—Putting "set up" night spots under scrutiny of the state liquor inspector was fostered by the Missouri house of representatives Tuesday in a bill passed 101-8.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Murray Thompson (R) of Webster county swept the bill to a roll call victory on the declaration that it was "neither a wet nor a dry bill—this is common sense." It now goes to the senate.

The measure would put the establishments—which do not sell liquor or beer but do provide the other drink mixing ingredients—under the same regulations as taverns and cocktail bars, giving them the same closing hours and subjecting them to penalties for violating licensing rules.

Greatest opposition came from Rep. Forrest Mitterdorf (R) of St. Louis county, who declared that regulating the closing hours of the set up spots would merely drive young people to the "side-roads and the byways" with their liquor bottles after established closing hours.

Will Investigate Food Handling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(P)—Investigation of alleged irregularities in the handling of naval food supplies at Pearl Harbor was ordered by the Senate Mead committee.

Chairman Mead (D-NY) said hearings will begin tomorrow with Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and high naval officials as witnesses.

"It is charged," Mead said in a statement, "that a commanding officer of a sub-depot of the naval ammunition depot, Commander Laurence Blodgett, had received 1,441 pounds of meat and 520 pounds of butter from naval stores and had appropriated them to his personal use."

"Three separate naval investigations, including a general court martial of Commander Blodgett, resulted in the latter's acquittal. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief, Pacific Fleet, in reviewing this case, severely criticized the way in which the case was investigated and the fact that Commander Blodgett was acquitted in view of the facts developed."

Move for Wage And Price Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(P)—The government moved toward a decision on national wage-and-price policy today, spurred by the start of strike-voting among 500,000 auto workers.

President Truman arranged to confer at 3 p. m. with members of the reconversion advisory board, whose membership takes in top-flight spokesmen for management and organized labor.

The board was called into special session at the White House this morning to debate a revision of the reconversion wage-price program.

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder has supplied the board with figures on the peacetime drop in worker income and its relation to the cost of living.

The White House reported today that Dr. George W. Taylor, former chairman of the War Labor Board, has accepted an invitation to serve as secretary of the management-labor conference starting November 5.

Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of North Carolina has accepted an invitation to serve as presiding officer.

The agenda for the conference is known to be ready, and probably will be announced soon.

It apparently will be issued simultaneously with a statement by President Truman. He proposed the conference as a means of finding voluntary machinery for peaceful settlement of labor disputes.

Say Bare 6,000 Of Captured Alive

BERLIN, Oct. 24—(P)—British authorities today quoted German war prisoners liberated by the Russians as saying that of approximately 100,000 Nazi troops captured at Stalingrad barely 6,000 are still alive.

The others have died in Soviet prison works camps or in transit home on trains which have 200 to 300 corpses aboard when they arrive at Frankfurt-on-Oder, the prisoners were quoted as saying.

Capt. J. G. Johnson of Oxford, Eng., commandant of the Invaliden Strasse transit camp where the bulk of these discharged war prisoners from the east are received, said he believed their reports are "not exaggerated."

"One can well believe that death rate when one sees the miserable wrecks coming through here at the rate of 2,000 per day," Johnson said.

"The Russians are not releasing able bodied men. They are all sick or incapable of further work."

Pettis' Chapter No. 279, O. E. S. will meet in regular session Friday evening, October 26, at 7:30 o'clock. Visiting members welcome. "Degrees."

For Proceeding On Production

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(P)—Reconversion boss John W. Snyder said today the administration would endorse a program of price ceilings on houses only if it were clear that this would not stifle construction.

Production is the key to the solution of the inflationary threat, he told a special senate subcommittee on complaints from small business.

Snyder, under questioning by Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.), declined to say whether house price ceilings would stop production, encourage it or make no difference.

"I would have to study the bill," Snyder said. "If a bill could be drawn that would not stifle construction, it might be very helpful against inflation."

Wherry added:

"You feel that if legislation could be worked out that is feasible, the administration would favor it?"

"They'd endorse that program," Snyder replied.

Snyder was followed by Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who argued strongly for price ceilings on houses to prevent inflation.

Bowles said "pressure on the prices of building materials and real estate are greater than in any other fields."

He also stressed that the nation "has a moral responsibility to see that veterans' families have a chance to get settled as quickly as possible in decent homes and at prices they can afford to pay."

Stress on Power

Capitol Hill's general interpretation was that Mr. Truman had decided power is going to do most of the talking in world affairs for some time to come.

Legislators thought he had come to this conclusion after long conversations with Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff and Secretary of State Byrnes, just back from the disappointing five-power conference of foreign ministers in London.

Republicans and Democrats were listed in the senate group favoring the president's plan as it stands. To name a few: Senators Bailey (D-NC), Gurney (R-SD), Ellender (D-La), Briggs (D-Mo), Hart (R-Conn), O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), Green (D-Rl) and Guffey (D-Pa).

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) called Mr. Truman's proposal "a last ditch effort, against the backdrop of this war, to force the undemocratic system of peacetime conscription on the people of this country."

Sensors McCarran (D-Nev), Taft (R-Ohio), Butler (R-Nebr), O'Daniel (D-Tex), Johnson (D-Colo) and Wilson (R-Iowa) were just as much against it.

Vote $2,644,000,000 Income Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(P)—Swiftly and without objections, the Senate today approved individual income tax cuts of $2,644,000,000 in a $5,633,000,000 tax slashing bill.

The Senate Finance committee earlier reported next year's tax reduction may be $8,000,000 greater than it originally estimated.

Reporting formally on a bill called up in a morning Senate session, the committee set the reduction at $5,633,000,000, or $8,000,000 more of a cut than the experts' previous computation.

Of the total reduction, individual income taxpayers would benefit by $2,644,000,000, corporations by $2,849,000,000, and owners of automobiles and boats, $140,000,000, through repeal of the $5-a-year tax cut.

The Senate committee asserted however, that over a two-year period, 1946 and 1947, taxes under the Senate bill would be $1,336,000,000 more than under the House version of the same legislation.

Under its bill, the Finance committee said the nation's tax liabilities would be $26,857,000,000 next year.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) in presenting the committee report to the Senate, argued the excess profits tax on corporations was the "greatest single obstacle to our recovery."

He said the levy which the bill would repeal as of next January 1 discouraged new investments, retarded production and encourages wasteful expenditures.

"This is the first shipment of ashes from Japan to the United States, I am informed. But it is just the beginning. All of these jars were on shelves in just one temple — Ju Gangi, at Osaka. There were others all over Japan."

Taking information from dog tags and other records, the Japanese engraved the name of each victim—in Japanese — on a jar and also noted the date and "cause of death." Carter said the Japanese cremated the bodies and kept the ashes in a temple where a Buddhist priest prayed over them daily.

Cpl. Robert W. Watring of Otterville Writes of Being in Okinawa Typhoon

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Watring of Otterville, have received a letter from their son, Cpl. Robert W. Watring, telling of the typhoon on Okinawa where he has been stationed since July. The letter in part follows:
"Dearest Mother and Dad:
"I will write you a few lines to tell you of the narrow escape we had yesterday and last night. We had a big storm and about 6:00 o'clock last night our tent blew away and then we went over to another tent and it was not long until it went down. The wind was blowing about 100 miles an hour. Then they told us we would have to go to the hills. We did not have any shelter of any kind. They said a tide from the ocean was coming in and we would all drown if we did not get to the hills.
"I had a blanket wrapper around me and pair of pants and a shirt and was barefooted. If it had not been for that blanket I think I would have frozen to death. As I told you before there are plenty of Japs up in those hills yet but they told us we did not have time to get our guns so we just had to take off as we were.

Lost Boy Dies After Rescue

Went Hunting Sunday With Uncle In Oklahoma

TALIHINA, Okla., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A lost boy whose Sunday squirrel hunt turned into a nightmare of twisted underbrush, hunger and cold, died of exposure Tuesday after searchers found him bruised and unconscious.
The shirt worn by the boy, Lloyd Neal Hokit, nine was torn from his back by brush he sought to fight his way through and his eyes were swollen shut from crying and lack of sleep, his two soldier rescuers said.
The soldiers, Pvt. Herschell Kirkwood, Oklahoma City, and Claude Busby, Durant, Okla., were members of a group of servicemen from three states who joined in the hunt. Both are stationed at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Others came from a naval ammunition base at McAlester, Okla., and Camp Mexey, Texas.
Due To Exposure
Drs. Paul G. Thode and H. Rudin from the Indian hospital near here, said the boy had died from exposure.
The weather was warm when he set out to hunt Sunday morning with his uncle, D. Richardson Wilburton, Okla., so the boy wore light clothing.
During the night, however, a cold wave moved into the hilly area, accompanied by rain and chill winds. The boy apparently spent the night without shelter or food and then wandered until he collapsed, the searchers said.
Mother Collapses
The boy's mother, Mrs. Claude Hokit, who stumbled through underbrush for two days and nights without sleep in search of her missing son, was in a state of collapse at a neighbor's home.
She kept up the search until she dropped, exhausted. Even then she forced herself to stay awake and sat wide-eyed and semi-hysterical.
The boy's uncle said he left the lad resting while he hunted a squirrel he heard a short distance

Holbrook Wins From Schub In Two Fast Falls

Estep-Fenelon Win Team Match From Olson And Parker

Vic Holbrook, the 250 pounds of handsome man from Hollywood, Calif., made short work of his match with "Pete" Schub, Chicago, the "bad boy of wrestling," by taking two straight falls, before Schub could display his lack of regard for orthodox wrestling. Also Sedalia's favorite, Everett Marshall of Sturgeon, Mo., and Ken Fenelon, Dubuque, Iowa, won the team match from Cliff Olson of Minneapolis and Jimmy Parker from Memphis, Tenn.

The matches were held Tuesday night at the armory. Wrestling fans cheered Fenelon and Estep in the ring, but none knew that Fenelon was in the ring going through his work with a heavy heart. The young wrestler just before he entered the ring received a telephone message from Mrs. Fenelon that his father, William F. Fenelon, 60, had died suddenly at Dubuque, a few minutes before.

Went On With Match

"It is a shock to me to have learned this way that my father has passed away. There isn't anything I can do and rather than call the match off I will enter the ring and do my best," Fenelon told promoter Simon Kalis, who indicated he would ask the team match to be called off.

The first fall went to Fenelon and Marshall after a rough house grappling contest had been exhibited in the ring. Fenelon applied the "Iowa Stepper" a leg lock to Parker and won the match in 21 minutes and 45 seconds. The second fall was won by the Parker-Olson combination, with Parker being the winner, in six minutes. Parker used a head lock, checking Fenelon and used a rolling face lock, which Estep and Fenelon claimed was illegal, but the fall went to Parker under protest.

Tied Up In Ropes

The second fall was won by Estep who entered the ring and after taking a beating from Olson, finally got the Swede tied up in the ropes and jumped on the ropes to tighten them on Olson's neck. When Parker tried to help Olson, he got his leg and foot tangled up and Olson then was the victim of a series of body flips and a cross body block the fall being made in four minutes and 45 seconds.

Holbrook made short work of the first fall getting it in six seconds using a dropkick on Schub as he rushed across the ring. The second fall took 16 minutes and 15 seconds, with Holbrook using his famous abdominal stretch. This hold has been made famous by Holbrook who is one of few wrestlers to be able to apply it successfully.

Next Tuesday an all-star card will be presented when "Big Ben" Morgan meets Holbrook in the main event; Ralph Garibaudi, East St. Louis, meets Ray Graham of Dallas, Tex. The preliminary match will be between Ken Fenelon and Don O'Connor, the latter of Boston, Mass.

THE RIGHT TRACTOR FOR THE PARTICULAR JOB

THE proverbial Jack-of-all-trades was master of none. The modern world of science and technology passed him by. The same principle applies to farm tractors. The tractor that does a wide variety of jobs unsatisfactorily can't possibly produce the greatest results at the least cost in any job.

But that's what the farmer—particularly the small operator—has got to do to meet postwar competition: he's got to produce the most food possible with the least effort and, consequently, at the lowest cost.

The farmer with 10 acres in truck crops needs one kind of tractor. The farmer with 100 acres in wheat alone needs another kind—or, as is usually the case, two or more different tractors. The tractor which does a good job on the Great Plains may be useless in the rice territory. And so it goes.

Conditions of climate, the lay of the land, and the character of soils in the different parts of this vast country, together with wide variations in the nature of crops and the size of operations, combine to produce wide differences in the requirements for tractors. Harvester's policy is to meet all these requirements.

That is why Harvester's postwar line includes a great variety of Farmalls and other specialized tractors and attachments rather than a single tractor with a single system of tools. Every tractor in the line was developed after scientific research and testing under actual operating conditions showed the specifications needed for efficiency and economy.

Every Harvester-built tractor is the right machine for its particular job.

Paris Picks Book Shelves Clean At Sidewalk Stalls Along Seine

Pre-war tourists in Paris found many a rare buy in the famous bookstalls along the Seine. Now stocks of books and magazines are low, and eager buyers pay fantastic prices for publications. Few of the sidewalk book shops have as complete a stock as this one.

BY ROSETTE HARGROVE

NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—The famous bookstalls on the banks of the Seine are being ravished by eager bookworms, as Parisians, deprived of literature during the German occupation, descend upon the limited supply of books, comics, magazines and pamphlets that is now seeping into France.

Bookstall owners are making money hand over fist, and shelves that once held first editions are swept clean by nightfall of detective stories, old comics and confession magazines.

Anything sells in Paris today, and at prices high in the black market brackets. The publishing business was almost at a complete standstill during the Nazi occupation. For this reason everything from bound books to back-number newspapers costs about ten times what they did before the war.

The French are so avid for reading matter and news of the world that they are willing to pay any price for a few printed words.

Where the situation assumes the most serious proportions, however, is in the realm of school and text books. With the reopening of schools and universities all over France the scarcity is causing serious headaches in scholastic circles. Here, too, the black market extends its tentacles for the good reason that bookstores have been unable to replenish their stocks and cannot begin to meet the demand.

Costs Skyrocket

The cost of producing any kind of book has increased tremendously since the war. Labor, machinery, and inadequate paper supplies are responsible for the rise in prices.

French educators and parents protest that if the government can find enough paper for the 30-odd newspapers and as many weeklies and monthlies, there should be sufficient supply to allocate paper for the publishing of text books for the education of French youth.

With scarcely a book to read, the youth of France returns to school to be educated to world democracy and the 3 R's. In addition to the lack of supplies there is a lack of building. ## The 'Galloping Ghost' Comes Home

Battle-scarred veteran of 18 major naval engagements in the Pacific, the Enterprise, "Galloping Ghost of the Oahu Coast" moves gracefully up the Hudson River through mists that shroud the New York skyline. She will be retired soon.

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—She's just another Old Lady now—a relic about to become a relic. The boys used to think her trim and graceful, and give her the wolf call whenever she hove into view. Her lines haven't changed, though she has had a few major operations and a couple of face liftings. She still can step as fast, as high, as wide and as handsome as in her prime. But times have changed, tastes have progressed, newer models have come along.
Now she's just the Old Enterprise—the Big E. She's the fightingest carrier in the fleet and probably the most famous warship in modern American history. Now she is making her last round of public appearances before her aged carcass is turned into a museum piece.

We have the Midway now and the Franklin D. Roosevelt, each boasting 45,000 tons of mass and power and beauty. We have 13 nice new Essex class carriers of 27,000 tons each, not to mention the 33,000-ton Saratoga.
That leaves the Enterprise lagging, when the Roosevelt takes to sea and a couple of the Essex classes go into service, in 19th place in our carrier procession.
Small, But Mighty
She's small, in contrast with her newer sisters. She's six years old—pre-war. Her equipment isn't so modern and efficient as that of the new carrier debutantes. By concession of the men who love her most, she doesn't belong any more.
Yet, if the powers that be had not decreed that Big E must be decommissioned, I doubt that any man who ever served on the Enterprise would willingly accept assignment to any other carrier in our fleet.
The way Enterprises feel about their Old Lady can be illustrated by two stories. One concerns an episode at Pearl Harbor, when Big E was returning to the Bremerton Navy Yard for repairs after a kamikaze plane had all but ruined her.
As she approached port a formation of fighter-bombers flew over, forming the letter "E". They were from Air Group Six, that had homed on the Enterprise during the first eight months of the war. They were now reassigned, but they still loved their old carrier. As proof, they flew low so that the men on Big E could see, on signs painted on the aircraft:
"For—Carrier—Champ—Take—Enterprise."
The other story is of the Enterprise crew member who, on a party visiting the newer, bigger Saratoga, was asked for his credentials. Reaching into a pocket he pulled out a nickel, dropped it into a nearby crack, and inquired:
"This is the Staten Island ferry, isn't it?"
Big E is lying tied to a New York pier now, awaiting her part in the Presidential review on Navy Day. Then it is reported that she will go to Boston to participate in a celebration for Admiral "Bill" Halsey, who had his flag aboard her on Pearl Harbor day, who used her to escort the late Hornet when Jimmy Doolittle's fliers were taking off to bomb Tokyo, and who welcomed her return to his command in the fall of 1944 by dubbing her "The Galloping Ghost of the Oahu Coast."

To Be Decommissioned
Soon thereafter she will be decommissioned. It is generally accepted that she will be tied up at some major port—probably with a few fighters and torpedo bombers moored to her deck—as a museum of World War II naval achievement.
There are scores of American warships—carriers, battlewagons, cruisers, destroyers, submarines and more prosaic craft—that have written proud chapters into the history of this war. There may well be dozens on which as great courage and efficiency, under the most terrible conditions have been exhibited. It is possible that there is another ship that has done as great damage to the Japs.
But when you walk up the gangplank to the hangar deck of Big E, and wander through its tortuous passageways upstairs and down, tread its flight deck and maybe climb laboriously up into the various levels of the "island," you will be about as close to the great tradition of American naval glory as you could ever get in this world.
Out of 22 naval battles in the Pacific, she was in 18. Fifteen times, in four years, the Japs succeeded in damaging her with hits or near misses. Six times the Nips claimed to have sunk Big E. At least once she suffered severe damage from American shells aimed at kamikaze planes at close quarters. She downed 911 Jap planes, sank 71 Jap ships and damaged 192 others.
You won't be able to find the scars, but when you look at the forward elevator, big enough to raise or lower two planes simultaneously between hangar and flight deck, try to picture that large mass suspended 400 feet in the air, atop what looks like Old Faithful in full eruption. That was what happened when a Jap suicide pilot succeeded in slamming square into the forward area of the flight deck.

On the port side of the hangar deck, take a look at the wing of another kamikaze plane that just missed the flight deck and exploded in the water alongside.
Pioneered Night Flight
After you have wandered through officers' and crews' quarters, look in Big E's picture album and see the shambles that they were after the kamikaze exploded, or even after a dropped bomb went through the flight deck and exploded inside.
Remember Butch O'Hare? He made his name and fame flying off the Enterprise, and died leading the first carrier night-flying mission, whose methods he had conceived.
Veteran or boop, your heart fills your throat when you see a fast fighter landing on that little deck in a cross-wind by full daylight on a calm sea. But the Enterprise pioneered takeoffs and landings in the black of South Pacific night, sometimes when the sea was far from calm.
The saga of the Enterprise has been told fully and often. I'm not telling it over again. Nor am I suggesting that, because of her great record, Big E should be kept in service now that we have so many newer, bigger, more efficient carriers.
All that I am trying to say is that, if you ever have the privilege of setting foot aboard the Galloping Ghost, you are going to walk where some of the most glorious chapters in naval history were recorded almost continuously between December 8, 1941, and May 14, 1945, when a kamikaze crash sent her back to Bremerton for repairs.

Luncheon for Lookout Club

A covered dish luncheon was served during the October all-day meeting of Lookout Hustlers club at the home of Mrs. S. M. Hood.

Mrs. J. F. Shaw presided over the afternoon business session which was opened with roll call, in answer to which safety hints were given. All joined in singing "God Bless the Whole, Wide World," after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated.

A feature of the meeting was a demonstration of sewing machine attachments by Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Scott. Chairmen's and officers' reports were heard.

Mrs. Roy DeWitt, Mrs. Lena Johnson and Mrs. William Rogers were visitors, the latter of whom joined the club.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Walter Wear.

House Passes Bill On Fund For Teachers

Would Include State Teachers College Faculties

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24—(P)—The Missouri House of Representatives revived and passed, 89 to 15, Tuesday a bill to add faculty members of the state's Teachers Colleges to a newly enacted Teachers' retirement system.

Proponents overrode the opposition of Rep. J. D. Swiers (R) of Greene county who last week maneuvered the measure to a 52-30 defeat. It now goes to the senate, where a similar bill was offered yesterday by Sen. Jasper Smith (R) of Springfield.

Only two members voiced opposition to the proposal — Swiers and Rep. Forrest Mittendorf (R) of St. Louis county, who said he was against it because it didn't include all employes of educational institutions.

Would Include Janitors
He declared his county wanted and would pay for inclusion of janitors, bus-drivers and board of education clerks under the bill.

Swiers, who said he knew he was going against the wishes of his "good friends" who are teachers' college professors and against the wishes of his colleagues from Greene county, declared he could not vote for a bill giving pensions to well-paid teachers while old people are "overlooked" in granting pension increases.

When the bill triumphed by its 29-15 vote, Swiers declared, "They whipped me 'til I don't know where I'm at but I'll vote 'aye' on the emergency clause."

It puts a bill into effect immediately on passage by both houses and signing by the governor. Others who voted against the measure followed Swiers' lead in giving the bill additional votes on the emergency clause.

Before the measure went to final vote, however, the Greene county Republican was vehement in his opposition.

"I hope that I will not be criticized like I was the other day for talking 'loud and foolish,'" he declared in referring to an editorial published in a Springfield newspaper last Sunday.

"High Pressure Pete has been over the territory" in getting backing for this bill," he asserted, adding that the president of Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College was in Stoddard county, in Mississippi county and "all over the southeast part of the state" asking for pressure to get the bill passed.

"I would not vote for this bill for my brother until we take care of the poor widow woman" who works to see that her children get an education, he said.

Of teachers in the colleges, he said, "I hope they're big enough to give me the right to speak and vote the way God permits me to see the light."

By-Products Of Training

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(P)—Eight beneficial by-products of a year's military training for American youths are seen by President Truman.

In recommending a universal training program to congress he said the basic reason for such a program was national defense. But under his plan, he said, trainees would have an opportunity to:

1. Perfect themselves in some military specialty.
2. Improve their educational status.
3. Work generally for self improvement.
4. Develop skills which would be useful in civilian life just as such skills were developed during the war.
5. Raise the physical standards of the nation's manpower.
6. Lower the nation's illiteracy rate.
7. Develop ideals of responsible American citizenship.
8. Improve the moral and spiritual welfare of the nation's youth.

The President said, in connection with raising physical and spiritual standards, that medical examinations would be made to remove some of the minor disabilities which caused so many young men to be rejected by the armed forces in the war. Facilities for worship in every faith would be available.

You girls and women who suffer from simple anemia or who lose so much during monthly periods that you are pale, feel so tired, weak, "dragged out"—this may be due to low blood-iron—

So start at once—try Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS—one of the greatest blood-iron tonics you can buy to help build up red blood to give more strength and energy—in such cases.

Taken as directed—Pinkham's Tablets are one of the very best home ways to get iron into the blood. They help build up the red quality of the blood by reinforcing the haemoglobin of red blood cells.

Just try Pinkham's Tablets for at least 30 days. Then see if you, too, don't remarkably benefit. Follow label directions.
